Next Tuesday evening at Haggart's hall, Shoppers will hold the initial meeting of the Moonlight club for the present season. NEW STYLE FREIGHT ENGINES
CAME UP FROM CHICAGO TODAY

Engines 1473, 1479, 1480 and 1481 double-headed type extras out of Chicago this morning at 10 and 12:45 for the Madison division where they will be used in freight service. These engines are the new Class 2, consolidated freight locomotives and among the most powerful on the whole system.

Another of the new style freight engines now being delivered to the road was seen in the yards yesterday when Engineer Sullivan brought up an extra from Chicago with engine 1465, a Class R2 engine. These are the kind which it was thought could not be turned on the table at the yards. Being more powerful than the Class 12 type, many thought that they would also be longer and project over the ends of the table, but this impression proved to be erroneous. They are not an inch longer than the Class 12, but much higher, with a much larger boiler, and an R1 standing alongside is completely dwarfed. The 1465 was also turned over to the Madison division.

Fireman Fleming went south on an extra at 10:30 this morning with Engineer Colman on account of the regular fireman being sick.

Engineer Smith brought up engine 1361 on an extra last night and turned it over to the Madison division for service.

Fireman Wilkins went north on an extra in the north end pool at 9:30 this morning with Engineer Washford on account of the latter's trip in the morning on the down trip yesterday.

Engineer Yates expects to take runs 634 and 641 with Engineer Lewis next Monday.

The work on engine 884, which has been in the shops for the past month for a complete overhauling, is almost completed and the engine will be put into switching service in the yards tonight.

Fireman Peterson was on the switch-engine last night with Engineer Wilson in place of Fireman Dooley who was injured recently in a collision by being thrown against the boiler head.

Engineer Toriblox is relieving Engineer Manning on 300 and 322.

STRANGE MODERN VERSION OF
"THE BABES IN THE WOOD"

Being pursued by a box car, the experience of Brakeman Charles Cantwell, or Laurie Hoffman's three hours of aimless wanderings on the boulevards of Janesville, or even Baby's foot of green tomatoes painted red, are peaceful dreams compared to the harrowing nightmare that made life hideous for Engineer S. O. Dudley Wednesday night. During the absence of the call boy, the temporary night foreman started out to call a train crew at the far end of the new yards. The night was dark, densely so, and it seemed as though there were thousands upon thousands of box cars, all alike, and miles and miles of track. To make a long story short, he got lost and no "babe in the woods" was more forlorn than he. Although he knew the yards from a cab window, they looked mighty strange from the ground. After wandering about for a time a bright idea struck him. Instead of firing a box car as a signal of distress, he cut across the tracks at right angles and found himself in a pasture and a wide detour through the mud finally landed him in Afton. With that as a starting point, he managed to negotiate the round house just in time to head off a posse of night men who had organized a rescue party to search for him.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.
Twenty-eight engineers and thirteen firemen on the Mineral Point division are shown in the order of their age on the front on a list made out and filed at the roundhouse. Of the engineers, C. E. Hobbs heads the list while A. Mahoney leads the firemen in point of service.

a history of the movement and dis-unions to law, wages and the sweat-

LOVE TANGLE BARED.

Mlle. Brindeau and M. France.
Paris.—A difficult liaison in the mortal projects of Anatole France, the veteran novelist, who is planning to marry the charming young actress, Mlle. Brindeau.
The celebrated writer whose real name, by the way, is Jacques Anatole Thibault is 65 years old and it was while returning from Buenos Ayres that he met Mlle. Brindeau and fell in love with his pretty fellow passenger.
M. France had not counted on the publicity which his courtship would attain by the pretensions of a certain Mlle.
Callavet.
This lady is middle aged and she declares that Anatole France is indebted to her for substantial aid and comfort which she gave him while he was struggling for recognition. She has appeared on the scene with demands for instant satisfaction of these under pain of all sorts of revelations. M. France declares that his obligations to Mlle.
Callavet, even if he allowed them to be purely financial and the engagements for his marriage to Mlle. Brindeau as well under way.

Rug to Weigh Two Tons.
What is said to be the largest rug in the world, is being woven by a broadway firm for the ball room of a well-known hotel. The rug is 83 feet long by 55 feet wide and is surrounded by a nine-foot border. It will weigh two tons. Such a heavy rug, of course, could not be removed except with a hoisting apparatus, so it is being made in sections. The rug is of Saxony Wilton, and the carpet company is making it in this country, although it owns factories in Europe.—New York

DYSPEPSIA, GAS, HEARTBURN AND ALL STOMACH DISTRESS VANISHES

A little Diapiesin makes your out-of-order stomach feel fine in five minutes.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapiesin.
If your stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work not with drastic drugs, but a re-enforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak stomachs should take a little Diapiesin occasionally, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, sour risings, Gas on Stomach or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking a little Diapiesin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin now, and you will always go to the table with a heartily appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

duced. The unequalled Hirsch-Wickwire, Sophomore, Viking, the L. Abt. clothes and others.

late style touch, and many features that other stores have not yet been able to get. Everything we sell is 100% guaranteed. Prices range, and the biggest values in town at $10 to

Shoes For Men, Young Men and Boys

GOOD SHOES COST WHAT THEY'RE WORTH, in one sense, and you can't buy them for less. But in another and far more important sense, such shoes as ours are worth a good deal more than you pay for them.

An instance is the Kneeland shoe, illustrated.
The large knob toe extension rope stitched sole,
military heel, high arch, is the very best style shown in the city. You will see all good dressers wearing this shoe this season. In workmanship and material it compares with $5.00 shoes

THE WEATHER CHANGES of the last few days prove that one cannot be too careful about keeping the feet dry and warm. The cushion sole in DR. REED'S CUSHION SOLE SHOES protects the feet from changeable weather, as the cushion is a non-conductor of cold. Many distinctive features in these shoes. Drop in any one of our three stores and let us demonstrate the benefits derived from the cushion.

Shoes For Women, Misses and Girls

COMFORT AND CORRECTNESS IN FOOTWEAR HAVE NO MARKET VALUE. You can scarcely pay too much for them. The point of importance about buying your shoes here is that you get the comfort and correctness and you pay only for the material, built-in value of the shoes. Correctness is a matter of fashionable designs, in which we are the acknowledged leaders, and comfort is the result of our life-long experience in custom shoe making, coupled with our care and conscience in fitting your feet in our ready-to-wear boots built on custom lines.

WEYAUWEGA WANTS GAME WITH LOCALS

Intermediates of Northern Association Desires Two Basketball Teams With Janesville Five.

Physical Director Wheeler of the Y. M. C. A., who is acting as manager of the newly organized intermediate basketball team, is corresponding with the managers of intermediate five in other cities seeking to arrange a schedule for the local five for the winter season. Weyauwega, in Waukesha county, northwest of Appleton, has already written for games, desiring two to be played there on succeeding nights. While as yet no arrangements have been made it is quite likely that the Janesville boys will go. Negotiations with Beloit are now under way for a contest with the intermediate five of the Line City Y. M. C. A., and it is expected that in a few days challenges will be sent in from other associations or else games will be secured with them by writing.

The candidates for the team had a practice game yesterday and judging from the way they played, Mr. Wheeler feels confident that a strong and successful team can be picked from among those who are trying for position.

MONEY IS TO GO ON MONDAY TO CHERRY

Funds Raised in Janesville for Miss Sufferers Will Be Forwarded.

On Monday next the fund which has been deposited with the Gazette to be forwarded to the sufferers from the awful mine disaster at Cherry, Ill., will be forwarded to the Red Cross authorities in Chicago. There are many who have signified their intention of adding to the money already left at the Gazette office and this additional opportunity is given them to do so. Thousands of dollars will be needed to care for the widows and orphans, the poor lonely women and children who must now face the world and its problems without any wage-earner to help them. The Red Cross society is to take charge of the fund raised in Janesville and it will be added to the money subscribed elsewhere. It is an opportunity to do some real Christian work at this Christmas time and it is to be hoped that many additional sums will be left at the office before the first closes on Monday.

As required, a copy of the plan was submitted to the State Board of Control, which has been returned with their "O. K." accompanied by a letter from the president of the board, expressing the hearty approval, by the board, of the completeness of the arrangement of rooms, providing maximum accommodations at a minimum cost.

LETTERS CONTINUE TO COME FOR SANTA

Saint's Mail Bag Promises to Be Heavy This Year If Present Indications Count for Anything.

There are hundreds of little friends of old Santa Claus in Janesville and Rockford who are sending their letters to their dear old friend through the medium of the Gazette. His mail bag this year promises to be bigger and fatter than ever.

They come in tiny little envelopes that the writers have sealed with care and they come in big ones that brother or sister or mother or father have written for them. They all tell of an abiding faith in the friend of children that is beautiful.

The little people grow up too soon to suit many of us and while they are little and believe in the tales of childhood it is a sweet delusion to permit them to do so. The Santa Claus Christmas days are always the happiest.

The Gazette mail bag will be sent on December 11th, so be sure and have your letter in the office before that time. Write plainly and on one side of the paper only. Address it care of the Gazette and it will reach Santa all right.

U. S. OFFICER REPORTS EFFECTIVE BLOCKADE OF GREYTOWN, NICARAGUA.

AWAIT DETAILS OF EXECUTION

State Department Expects News of President Zelaya's Action in 24 Hours—May Recognize Government of Revolutionists.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The very latest developments in the Nicaraguan situation are these:

The revolutionary army has possession of the country back of Greytown, including the town of Roma, where fighting is imminent.

Declaration from the under-secretary of state of the Nicaraguan revolutionary army that the two Americans murdered by Zelaya were part of the outpost of the revolutionary army approaching Managua.

The revolutionary army has possession of the country back of Greytown, including the town of Roma, where fighting is imminent.

Effective Blockade Exists.

An effective blockade of Greytown by the revolutionists is being maintained and the town is occasionally bombarded but without effect thus far.

Only one American citizen is to be found in Greytown, where American and foreign interests are large.

The navy's wireless has been used by the state department to ascertain whether Zelaya has been interrupting official dispatches for the United States government.

A wireless message has been received from Colon from the American commander of the Des Moines relative to recent conditions in Nicaragua.

Within 24 hours the state department believes it will be advised whether President Zelaya of Nicaragua has been interrupting official dispatches to the United States government.

The chaotic condition of affairs in the country may be responsible for the absence of information that has been imperatively demanded, particularly regarding the execution of the two American soldiers with the insurgents, but there is a strong suspicion that Zelaya is trying to cover up his murderous duplicity.

Greytown is Bombarded.

The navy wireless service has been invoked and great encouragement is felt by the state department of satisfactory results because of the receipt of a message from the commander of the cruiser Des Moines in the harbor of Greytown. He reports American interests there are being protected; says that the insurgent blockade is effectively maintained and notes that the insurgent army is rapidly growing and becoming more aggressive.

According to his information the Estrada army has possession of all of the back country and has occupied Roma. He sent an officer ashore at Greytown who found only one American citizen. If there were others imprisoned the state department did not make the fact public. Fighting has begun at Greytown. The two gunboats operating most actively in maintaining the blockade, bombarded the town several times, but no great damage was inflicted. The occupation of Roma means a battle, according to the officers, for Gen. Estrada is pushing a whirlwind campaign.

Insurgents Are Confident.

With rapidly increasing reinforcements, and the receipt of a heavy cargo of rifles and ammunition from the United States, estimated to be worth something over $50,000, the Nicaraguan insurgent army of Gen. Estrada is so confident of the speedy overthrow of the Zelaya government that it has sent Salvador Castriello, a noted Central American statesman, and a Managua lawyer of repute, to Washington with the credentials of a fully accredited minister of the Nicaraguan republic.

Although no official recognition has been given Castriello by the state department, the officials have been keeping in touch with him and his credentials will be presented the moment the United States recognizes the new government.

Americans Aid Revolutionists.

The state department, of course, is entirely ignorant in an official way of the shipment of arms from American ports. Under the rules of international law it is required to prevent filibustering in such cases.

Castriello is himself authority for the statement that the millions of war have reached their destination and that they have given renewed hope and spirit to the cause with which Uncle Sam is sympathizing.

Cruiser to Take Marines.

Four hundred marines are aboard, anxiously awaiting the signal to start. The cruiser probably will leave on Saturday.

Golden Text.—It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth. Rom. xiv:21.

Verses 10-12.—Is the Bible a book of rules in any sense, or is it a book of principles only?

Principles never change, but may a good rule under one condition become a bad one under another? Give examples.

There was a controversy in the church at Rome between the Gentile and the Jewish believers about meats and days; but in the eyes of God was it in any sense a moral issue, as to which were right, those who observed certain days and refrained from certain kinds of meat, or those who esteemed all days alike and ate all kinds of meat fit for food?

Did one Christian in Rome have any right to impute sin to another Christian, who believed and, therefore, acted differently in the matter of meats and days, to what the objector's conscience would allow him to act?

Does this commandment not to judge, forbid us forming an opinion concerning any doubtful action of our brother; and if not what does it forbid?

To-day one party in the church thinks that renting pews is wrong, another that any kind of games in the church parlors are wrong, while others think quite the opposite on these matters; now has either party any right to "judge" the other party to be guilty of moral wrong?

What should be both the constraining and the restraining influence with us, in all matters of conduct? (v:12.)

Verses 14.—Does God morally estimate actions in themselves or the motives which prompt the actions?

Give an example of how it is possible that one man may do a thing and please God, while another may do the same thing and commit sin.

How many outward actions can you think of that are always wrong under all circumstances?

Verses 15-16.—If your neighbor is very ill and your singing and piano playing hurts him, and you refuse to deny yourself the pleasure of singing and playing, what kind of a person are you?

If you enjoy and drink your glass of wine, when you know wine drinking is doing vastly more harm than good, what sort of a person are you?

To what extent should I deny myself any pleasure the gratification of which hurts my neighbor?

No sensible parent will allow anything in his family, however good it may be in itself, if it proves to be injurious to the children, should he or not, apply the same principle to his neighbors?

Verses 17.—Should our chief thought be given to the needs of the body or of the soul?

What does the Kingdom of God prominently stand for?

What, in the last analysis, is the real wealth of the individual, the family, the community and the nation?

Can the highest good be enjoyed if the Holy Spirit is not recognized as its source?

Verses 18-20.—What do we need to be, in order to be pleasing to God and to good men?

Verses 21.—If we deny ourselves things we enjoy, for the sake of others, what is the effect upon ourselves, and do we get as much, or more, out of the self denial as we would out of self gratification? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

If all who drink wine in moderation, would obey the principles of self denial in this verse, how long would it be before we should have total prohibition of the liquor traffic?

STUDENT LEAPS TO HIS DEATH.

William McCormick, Probably Mentally Deranged, Is a Suicide.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Including his roommate and shouting a frantic "good-by," William McCormick, 31 years old, a student at the Moody Biblical Institution here, jumped from a third-story window of the institute dormitory and died while being taken to a hospital.

Strange actions on the young man's part for some days had been noticed and his room-mate, J. L. Osborne, had been asked by the school authorities to watch him. McCormick retired late, and Osborne, seeing him asleep lay down beside him, only to be awakened by the shouted farewell as the student plunged from the window to his death. McCormick is reported to have been mentally deranged.

Aeroplane is another miracle of practical science—another impossibility shown to be possible—another dream of centuries realized, but realized in a manner which none but this generation could have understood. Will it be so with the aeroplane?

FIRE CAUSES THE CLOSING OF THE CHERRY SHAFT INDEFINITELY.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 26.—No attempt will be made to rescue the bodies still in the tunnels of the St. Paul mine until the flames have been brought under control. The mine has been sealed up and will not be again opened for weeks. This action was taken when it became known that the fire could not be controlled.

It is estimated that 204 bodies are sealed up in the mine. A large number were located Wednesday—variously estimated at from 68 to 109—in the third vein level of the St. Paul mine.

Danger of Fire Increases.

The danger of the fire working through the coal deposits in the second vein and up the face of the main shaft has increased hourly. Wednesday afternoon all workers, with the exception of Capt. Corrigan and his men of the Chicago fire department, were driven from the mine by the menacing fire. At great hazard, Capt. Corrigan and the firemen in a cage worked up and down the main shaft, blocking the blaze as it broke through the walls near the cage pulleys.

Fear was felt that the timbering in the main shaft and also at the bottom might give way without warning and entrap all rescuers in the mine at the time. Capt. Corrigan discovered that the incandescent fire had eaten its way through the coal at a depth of several feet from the face of the main shaft and the tunnels. This hidden combustion, the extent or intensity of which cannot be estimated, may also ignite a large pocket of imprisoned gases on the second level.

Business at Standstill.

With the work of recovering the bodies stopped temporarily at least, the authorities devoted most of their energies to providing for the further needs of the stricken families. Red Cross nurses went from house to house distributing food and clothing and attending the sick.

All business is at a standstill. The storekeepers have lost heart, and it is predicted that two weeks from now not a single person who now lives here will remain in the village. A general exodus is looked for. Already a number of families have prepared to move, and several merchants have announced that they will transfer their stocks of goods to other mining towns in the vicinity. When the Cherry mine resumes—if it ever does reopen—it will probably be with an entirely new force of men to dig and haul the coal.

Not since the recovery of the first bodies have such scenes been witnessed as the heartrending picture now was presented at the mouth of the mine after the news that it had been again sealed had become generally known.

Hundreds of grief-stricken women with worn faces and fatherless children clinging in fear to their dresses gathered in groups about the shaft of the mine, sobbing and moaning. Their sacred dead are lost forever. The realization of the horrible end of the great disaster has aroused a frantic grief.

Women fell on their knees, dragging their children with them, sobbing out their cries of despair.

Many men in Cherry still cling to the belief that with the sealing of the mine, living men among the nearly 200 still missing, have been doomed to death.

Mine experts scout the idea and state that such is an impossibility. "Nothing can be done until the fire has died out, and the extreme danger of entering the shaft is eliminated," declared W. W. Taylor, superintendent of the mine.

The dissatisfaction of the miners at the step taken by the mine officials was openly voiced.

"They are thinking only of saving property, and don't care about the dead," exclaimed one gray-haired Scotch miner. "We want our dead. The women want the bodies. The company will never get any service from these miners."

Plot to Break Seal.

The 19 saloons which are scattered about the town of Cherry were thronged with open. The mine officials requested this action and Mayor Connolly put it into effect to test the temper of the mining population regarding the sealing of the shaft.

Capt. Hall sent a detachment of troops under command of a corporal about the town to guard against any turbulence. The shaft, sealed by steel telegram to Gov. Doheny. Gov. Doheny, Springfield.—The St. Paul mine here has been sealed. We were forced to do it. Everything is quiet.

(Signed) RICHARD NEWSAM.
Rumors which were started by remarks of miners who lingered about the shaft had it that there existed a plot to "rush" the mine plant and destroy the sealing. The company officials scouted the idea and declared that they did not expect trouble.

Close Mine for Three Months.

It was declared that the mine would be sealed for at least three months until the present dangerous fire is smothered.

There were angry mutterings among the men and grief was displayed by the women when the news spread that the effort to recover the dead had been abandoned.

The port of sending a crew of men down to the third vein was explained by the fact that the heat and flames might at any moment "shift" the shaft—knock a timber out of place and block it—making it impossible for the cage to be drawn and leaving its human load to burn to death.

The mysterious disappearance of Robert Dean, 22 years old, assistant cage man at the St. Paul mine, and considered an important witness at the coroner's inquest, caused a stir here.

A sister of the miner, Mrs. John Love, declared that her brother had been intimidated and finally taken secretly from town to Chicago, where he wrote her stating he was going west.

Mrs. Love declared that several times men had warned him that his life was not safe in Cherry. Thursday last she declared Dean left Cherry for La Salle, Ill., in a large touring car, accompanied by two men. Saturday, according to her story, Dean was in Chicago and wrote a letter to her telling her he did not dare to come back to Cherry, and stating that he was on his way west.

12 FAMILIES FLEE TO STREET.

Escape in Night Apparel When Gas Explosion Occurs.

New York, Nov. 26.—Driven into a state of panic by an explosion that rocked the building, shattered panes of glass and caused plates and other dishes to tumble from the shelves, twelve families in the double apartment house at 42 West One Hundred and Sixteenth street fled in terror to the snow and slush-covered streets in their night clothes.

The frightful din caused by the explosion, with its consequent crashing of glass and crockery, led the tenants to believe the house had been dynamited with a bomb, but an investigation showed that in the collar whose flames were discernible, there had been an explosion when the place became full of escaping gas and then ignited from a burning jet.

Firemen extinguished the blaze in a few minutes.

NO GUESTS AT WHITE HOUSE

President and Cabinet Attend Thanksgiving Services—Day Is Celebrated by Americans in European Cities—Nicaragua Keeps Knox Busy.

Washington, Nov. 26.—President Taft after his Thanksgiving dinner with his family after attending services at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church. The place of residence was a man-tedonic turkey, that had been raised on a Rhode Island farm, and looked almost mountainous in its proportions.

"Thank goodness," the president sighed happily, as dessert was served. "I've had a dinner at which I haven't been compelled to make speeches, and where no reception committee lurked in the background. I've enjoyed food—real food—and I haven't had to work to get it."

No Guests at White House Dinner.

The president did not have any guests at dinner. Only the members of the Taft family were present, including Mrs. Langhlin, sister of Mrs. Taft. Miss Helen and her brother Charles had come home from their schools for the occasion and will remain until after the holidays.

Nicaragua Keeps Knox Busy.

The members of the cabinet observed the day in the same manner that millions of families did. Secretary Knox was compelled to be at his office for some time because of the pressing nature of the Nicaraguan affairs. All the other cabinet members, with the exception of Postmaster General Hitchcock, dined with their families. The postmaster general is a bachelor and he kept inviolate the secret of where he was to eat his Thanksgiving turkey.

Practically all of the high officials of the government attended church in the morning. President Taft began the day by being present at the special Thanksgiving services at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church. A special choir and added elaborate musical features drew a large congregation from diplomatic and official circles.

Unionist Points Out Probable Results If Budget Is Rejected.

London, Nov. 26.—"If you win a victory it will be only a temporary one; if you lose, you have prejudiced the position, power, prestige and usefulness of the house of lords, which I believe every one of you honors and desire to serve as heartily as I do myself."

In this homely, candid fashion, Lord Balfour of Balfour, a Unionist, told the members of the house of lords his opinion of the course they are pursuing with regard to the budget. He has none of the graces of oratory which Lord Rosebery possesses, but his plain, downright manner is not without effect and his speech was the real event of the sitting of the upper chamber. It probably will have even greater influence than that of Lord Rosebery, because Rosebery no longer holds the confidence of any party.

Middle West Teachers Convene.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Many high school and college teachers of the middle western states were present at the University of Chicago today when the annual meeting of the Central Association of Science and Mathematics Teachers was called to order. Armstrong, principal of the Englewood high school, and Prof. Thomas C. Chamberlain of the university.

TO REORGANIZE ENTIRE NAVY OF UNITED STATES

Department Is Urged to Have Ships Built Under Direction of Fighting Men.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The entire navy of the United States is to be reorganized if the report of the Swift board is accepted and it will encompass everything from the newest "Dreadnought" type to the armored cruisers.

Misfits, such as the Connecticut, the armor belt of which is said to be almost entirely below the water line, will henceforth be impossible.

The fleets of the world power of the western hemisphere are to become actually the nation's asset of pride on the seas instead of on the blue prints of bureaucratic experts, many of whom have never had the sting of salt winds in their nostrils.

In short, politics is to be removed from the management of naval affairs and shipyards and fighting ships are to be built under the supervision of the men who fight them instead of along the plans of civilians and politicians.

The Swift board, named months ago to go to the bottom of the naval situation in the United States and bring out every fault, is about to make its report. The navy department has not yet learned that it is due for reconstruction.

Not since the Spanish war revealed the weakness of the American military establishment and the subsequent drastic reorganization which Ellhu Root, then secretary of war, succeeded in bringing about, has there appeared a more general upheaval of the organization of the fighting forces of a world power than is foreshadowed in the Swift board report. The board has reached its verdict that the navy department must be reconstructed, after studying the systems of control in the admiralties of all the great nations.

The advisory board, then, for instance, is borrowed from the British admiralty and the plan to put young men in control and have the fighters decide what kind of ships to build is taken from the German system. Included in the report is a demand for a thorough reorganization of the navy yard administration.

U. OF I. DEDICATE BUILDING.

New Physics Laboratory Is Formally Opened.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 26.—In the presence of numerous well-known educators and other notables, the new laboratory of physics of the University of Illinois was formally opened and dedicated this afternoon. The ceremony took place in the physics lecture room, President James presiding.

First Gov. Deneen, on behalf of the state, presented the building to the university, and the speech of acceptance was made by W. L. Abbott of Chicago, president of the board of trustees. Dr. James then delivered the charge to the department of physics, to which response was made by Prof. A. P. Carman. The dedicatory address, delivered by President Pritchett of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of University Teaching, closed the afternoon's program.

This evening the American Physical society and the Illinois Academy of Sciences will be special guests at a meeting which will be addressed by Prof. David Kinley, dean of the graduate school, and Prof. Arthur G. Webster of Clark university. The regular scientific meeting of the American Physical society will be held tomorrow in the new building.

POLE IS A TARTAR FOR GOTCH.

Zbyzko Prevents the Iowa Throwing Him Within Hour.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 26.—Frank Gotch last night failed to gain a single fall from Zbyzko, the giant Pole, in an hour, and thereby lost his match, the conditions of which required Gotch to win two falls within the hour. The Pole displayed tremendous physical strength and an excellent knowledge of the game.

Zbyzko said: "I can beat this man in a straight match." Zbyzko weighed 230 pounds; Gotch 203. Ten thousand persons saw the match.

The rescued are Ernest Carlson, Anna Carlson, Arthur Pierson and Nola Nelson, owner of the boat. The party started out to attend a wedding on the north side of the lake and decided to take a short cruise before going to the festivities.

MRS. ROOSEVELT RETURNS HOME

Reaches New York After Summer's Sojourn in Europe.

New York, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and her daughter, Miss Ethel, returned from Europe on the Koenig Albert. Mrs. Roosevelt's stop-daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Robinson, and Collector of the Port William Lomb, Jr., met the returning travelers at the pier.

They expect to stop over a day or two at the Douglas Robinson home, going later to the Roosevelt residence at Oyster Bay.

PENN. WINS ANNUAL GAME WITH CORNELL

Ithaca Hold Quakers to Tie Score in First Half, But Lose 17 to 6.

Philadelphia, Nov. 26.—Wallowing and sliding around on a field that was several inches deep with mud, slush, ice and pools of water, the University of Pennsylvania football team defeated Cornell in the annual game on Franklin field by the score of 17 to 6.

It was a poorly played game, for which the weather and field conditions were in a great measure responsible.

Twenty thousand persons braved the elements and witnessed the game. There was hardly any choice in the teams during the first half, which ended in a tie at 6 to 6, but Pennsylvania showed the better form in the second half. Neither side, because of the wretched field conditions, could make any great gains by carrying the ball, and punting was largely resorted to. Fumbling was the rule rather than the exception and both teams suffered equally in losing the slippery ball.

ALTMAN BROTHERS ACQUITTED.

Alleged Bomb Throwers Are Found "Not Guilty."

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Vincent and Joseph Altman, brothers, accused of throwing a bomb which wrecked the plant of the Standard Sash and Door Company in this city, were found not guilty by a jury before Judge Tuthill.

One of the sensations of the trial was the testimony of Bruno Vera, who declared that he saw the brothers make a bomb and that he knew they had set fire to a number of buildings as the agents of a labor union.

The trial of the Altman brothers began November 5, and the case was given to the jury shortly before midnight Wednesday night. An attempt was made to connect the defendants with the reported bomb throwing which has marked the course of what is known as the "gamblers' war" in this city.

Biblical Languages.

The original languages of the Bible are Hebrew, Aramaic and Hellenistic Greek. Hebrew is the Semitic dialect of the inhabitants of Canaan adopted by the Israelites when they entered that territory. It has no expressive conjunctions or particles. This renders it impossible to express in Hebrew delicate shades of logical or philosophical thought. However, its idioms are most picturesque and paint vivid mental pictures.

THE ELECTRICAL WORLD

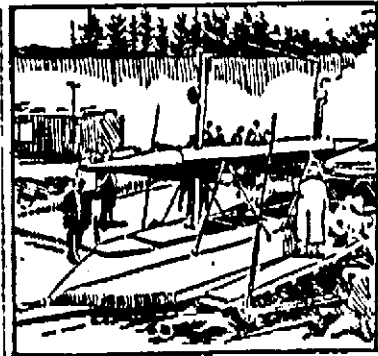

TORPEDO GUIDED BY WIRELESS

Machine Controlled by Electricity That is Expected to Render Big Battleships Obsolete.

It's no use to go on spending millions of dollars on battleships if the invention of a French engineer, M. Gustav Gavet, fulfills at its official trials, a few weeks hence, the promise just given at its unofficial trial. This new engine of destruction is a radio-automatic torpedo, so sensitive to control at so great a distance as to be well-nigh human. It can be guided by wireless waves. A distance of three and one-half miles and even four miles as completely as if the operator were on board instead of beside a telegraph instrument well out of harm's way.

Like the bee that is supposed to die when it has used its one and only sting, this costly vessel is expected never to make more than one "business" trip, and that trip is designed to be the most expensive voyage on record. The preliminary trials took place some time ago, but the working model used on this occasion, and of which I have obtained special photographs, is much larger and considerably improved.

Imagine a little submarine at the bottom of a hull of 11 yards, on top of this a long, thin, cylindrical float with two masts, each carrying lights that wink signals. In the compartment in the fore part of the hull there is accommodation for 200 pounds of explosive. The second compartment contains the apparatus controlling the Hertz radio-active waves which are now used in wireless telegraphy, and which will enable the operator to direct the vessel from a hitherto unprecedented distance. The third chamber of the hull incloses the "accumu-lators." They have nothing to do with moving the torpedo aboard, but regulate the maneuvers aboard. The fourth compartment contains the petroleum motor. According to M. Gavet, with a motor of 200 horsepower the rate of 20 knots can be easily attained. At the end of the hull there is the reversible copper propeller, permitting the machine to run either forward or backward.

The strange craft was slid down into the Seine on gently sloping rails and submerged to the upper compartment. On a small motorboat 100 yards off was the transmitter, with M. Gavet at the key. Under the eyes of an astonished group of army officers, men of science and newspaper men, obeying the invisible current waves transmitted from the launch, the motor of the torpedo boat went or stopped or desired. Under this same mysterious influence at the will of the man sitting in the launch, the rudder turned slowly to right or left. All the parts of the deadly machine obeyed his will.

"But it does not suffice to direct a torpedo boat," said M. Gavet. "One must know also what is passing inside. For that reason the lights undergo eclipses, which reveal to the operator placed on the shore the nature of the command received by the torpedo boat. He is then informed a couple of seconds ahead when such and such a maneuver is going to be made, and, thanks to this optical control, he can interfere to correct an error which may have been communicated to annul a disturbing wave, as, for example, from an enemy." So all is provided to direct the torpedo surely and with the utmost accuracy towards its giant adversary—the battleship.

"An engine such as this," continued M. Gavet, "can open a breach of 80 square yards in the hull of a battleship."

The objection was raised that the new torpedo was a most complicated instrument and every time the cone landed falsely it destroyed in itself a most costly apparatus.

"Yes," coldly replied the inventor, "my engine costs from $2,500 to $3,200. What is that, since it can sink a Dreadnaught, costing $8,000,000, with 800 men aboard?"

In less than a month the official trials are to be given on the high seas, with the torpedo from three to four miles distant from the operator.

A New Record in High Voltage.
A new record in high voltage transmission has been established by the Grand Rapids-Muskegon Power Company in Michigan who have just placed in service a transmission line operating at 110,000 volts. This is 10,000 volts in excess of anything ever before attempted and far beyond the dreams of even the most sanguine engineers 15 years ago. This particular line is 50 miles long and is a part of the 212 miles of transmission lines now being operated by the company.

Your Money Back If You Are Not Satisfied with the Medicine We Recommend

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartics, drugs, laxatives or enemas. They do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of the world's greatest research chemists. As an active agent it possesses the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal tonics as well as being particularly pleasant and prompt in its results.

We want you to try Roxxall Orderflow on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. They come in two sizes of packages, 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents. Sold in Janesville only at our store, The Roxxall Store, The Smith Drug Co.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

IF WE could only get accustomed to, and forget the discomforts and deprivations of life as easily as we get used to and forget its blessings!

It is beautiful that the eager desire of yesterday so often becomes the matter-of-fact of tomorrow.

Look over your blessings. Aren't there some that a year ago today would have made you perfectly happy? Just because you've lived with them a few months need you forget to be happy?

A year ago last summer I was very ill, and sleeplessness was one of the worst features of my ailment.

Night after night as I lay on my bed staring out into the darkness or turning restlessly from side to side and longing for that "beam of hurt which sleep that lulls up the ravaged slumber of care" with an intensity that doubtless kept me even more wide-awake, I said to myself—

I promise, Oh, I promise that if ever the nights come back when I may go to bed and close my eyes and sleep like other people, I will remember every morning to be thankful.

And when my health began to come back, for the first few weeks of natural sleep I did remember to be thankful.

And then—well the precious boon "that He giveth His beloved," sleep, became as much a matter of fact as it had always been.

Surely you, too, have said, "If only I may have this thing back again I will never forget to be thankful and happy."

And surely you, too, unless you are one of a thousand, have forgotten.

Thanksgiving is this day to remember again.

And to remember not only those things that you have recognized as blessings for a time and then forgotten, but also those things that have always been so much a matter of course that you never fully recognized them as blessings at all.

The wife of the fireman or sailor or fisherman remembers to say her words of thankfulness when her husband comes home safe.

Your husband is quite as dear to you as hers. That no especial danger hung over his head—or at least that you know of no special danger that hung over his head—makes it no less a blessing that he comes home safe to your arms at night.

The father and mother with sadly lessened brood probably don't forget to be thankful that even those few are safe for another Thanksgiving.

But you—fathers and mothers who preside over that wonderful blessing—a preside with no vacant chair—do you remember to be as solemnly grateful as you should?

Yes, of course we must take some things for granted some of the time. And of course we haven't time every day to remember and be thankful for all of our customary blessings.

But surely we have on Thanksgiving.

FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, November 26.—Women seem to have a perfect passion for chiffon nowadays, and considering the beauty of the material and its many artistic qualities this is not surprising. There is but one serious drawback, Chiffon, even the best and most expensive kind, has no enduring quality and, unless of the very best grade, and used with great care, it soon becomes shabby and untidy of appearance.

Only wealthy women, who can afford to buy any number of gowns and wear their gowns for a few proper occasions only, do well to wear chiffon. Women, however, who cannot afford an unlimited wardrobe and whose few gowns have to do service for various occasions, will find it more economical to purchase a gown of less perishable material.

Notwithstanding its delicacy, which makes chiffon unsuitable for anything resembling hard work, it has its place in the economy of fashion even of women with limited means.

Many a handsome frock, built up in one of the more substantial materials, such as crepe, moiré, tulle or cashmere, do so, has its chiffon accompaniment, not in the form of tulle or complete overcoat, but merely as scarf drapery, more or less intricately associated with the frock. However, a skillful hand and an artistic eye are required to give to these scarves and draperies the most becoming arrangement.

The broadness of the scarf, the softness of the material, the way they appear when they are in use, are all factors in very exclusive models. The rich brocades, in white, black or color, with gold or silver, are being effectively used and are by no means so hard to come by as they sound. The manufacturers have achieved wonders in softening these metallic brocades so that they drape with the lightness and suppleness demanded of the modern materials and yet retain their beauty of texture, design and color.

Almost every one of the great makers has turned out a model or two of this type and most of them are fairly successful. One beautiful gown of gold and white brocade, which came from the atelier of a famous maker, was made somewhat on the lines of a clinging and diagonally draped model. The drapery was drawn upward and caught along the left front down to the knee where it was held by a cluster of large gold gauze roses. Below the drapery opened over a petticoat of gold net over white chiffon. Little frills of gold net and lace finished the line down the left side and edged the bodice drapery which crossed from right to left, and the little under-bodice and short sleeves were of gold net over white chiffon.

Chiffon is back again in lovely designs, which offer dainty color and relief from the over-present plain white silken materials. They resemble of all color-strewned. They resemble of all color-strewned. They resemble of all color-strewned.

Children and grown-up persons, who are black chills with heat figures of older women. Adapted to the demands of older women. Adapted to the demands of older women. Adapted to the demands of older women.

Probably the latest idea in coats is that of a smart short, baggy, with full platted backs. Many of these have been seen at fashionable functions in Paris and here, but the loudest were by no means without their devotees. At one of these functions the other night were seen two striking Russian coats. One was of mustard-colored cheviot, the other of carmine blue, which resembles the blue-black of the raven's wing. These coats buttoned at the side in a straight line up to the shoulder, but at the wish of the wearer this line could be made to fall back, making a large revers.

Corbent blue is enjoying great popularity in Paris just now. It is used in street cloth suits, velvet gowns, and is being combined with rose satin on evening costumes. This shade of velvet is also employed as the shirred foundation of chinchilla.

As trimming on daytime dresses and evening robes, bands are used with great success. Indeed, as they occur in all colors, there is every reason to suppose that their popularity will not wane with the season. When applied as a plaque ornament they are worked out in Indian patterns, white, red and turquoise blue being combined with dull tan. Handsome clasps of colored beads are used to hold the fullness of a corsage, and draperies of skirts are fastened under loaded ornaments. Buckle bands are extremely beautiful and lend their straight lines for edging tulle, sleeves and waists. These are often embroidered in straight designs on chiffon and tulle.

For shawl foundations, of evening gowns the very newest idea is to use broadness of gorgeous hue and design or heavy watered silks. The princess and princess of these simple silks can be fitted perfectly to the figure, and the lovely colors, with their scrolls and flowers carried out in glancing silver or gold, form artistic backgrounds upon which chiffon, tulle or crepe do shine can be draped quite effectively. These exquisite shawls are generally made with narrow trapes, square or round, and the draperies are arranged in semi-circular fashion.

If a careful examination of many imported dresses be made there will be brought into notice ribbons, satin or gold and silver tissues which are so hidden under their net or lace coverings that the casual observer never suspects their presence. There is just a suspicion of pink or blue or green, so faint that the observer feels that a mistaken color idea has been given. That these tissues are really there, and upon close inspection, they can be dragged to the daylight, giving proof of just one more French touch.

A band of color can be detected on many white satin foundations. Occasionally a pale tone of a silk ribbon will encircle the arm, far down beneath layers of chiffon and lace. In many instances a broad stripe of rainbow indistinctness floats in a charming arch.

The silk and wool mixtures are quite to the front this season for gowns of all descriptions. Those of a diagonal weave and woven with a twist suggestive of serge are decidedly smart.

Crinolines will be used more for evening than for day wear, though some of the black far coats show pretty flat collars of this for to effect the dead blackness of the other fur.

Many beautiful fur scarfs, lined with silk, are draped loosely about the shoulders and knotted below the chest, from which hang two triangular shawls almost to the hem of the gown. Corded shirtings will be a favorite method in the making of muffs. Broad make excellent centers, and some muffs have excluded high-priced fur only to go into an excess of fur-edged metallic cloth.

Chenille fringes is used at present as a suitable trimming on the shoulder of a scarf. Where chenille is employed in this way it is either interwoven in the scarf ends, either in unbroken dots or small squares.

A novel combination of scarf and muff is made of bands of chiffon, quillings of satin and strips of fur, just as the body in shawl width, and just at the waist line the width is gathered in under two long buckles. From this point two long ends fall almost to the hem of the skirt. These ends can be hooked under the upper buckles and thus transformed into a fringed muff.

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A.M., M.D.

If a man is sick and feels inclined to exercise, he will generally aggravate the disease, and protect its cure, if he persists in exercising. For example, in dysentery and cholera, exercise is certain death; and a like result will follow in many other forms of disease, when instinct calls loudly for repose. A mere indisposition to effort is another thing; that is simply laziness; and to distinguish between the two, it is only necessary to observe that if the weariness is increased by exercise, if every step taken is a positive injury, and rest in bed is called for. If, on the other hand, a person feels better for exercise taken in moderation, then it is a clear indication that it should be repeated, leisurely, for a while; increase the time; then, as the strength increases, let the exercise be a little more active; in this way, feel your way along, and be on the safe side. All the rest of an invalid should be taken in an atmosphere which enables him to feel comfortably warm in every part of the body. Cold air is not necessarily pure, nor is warm air necessarily pure. Whether cold or warm, breathe pure air.

For a Party Or Bridemaid's Frock

A pretty suggestion for a dainty girlish party frock accompanies this. It is fashioned of fine French batiste made over a pink silk slip. The upper portion of the bodice is laid in the tucks, laid to form a deep yoke and bolero effect. The lower portion is tucked and gathered into a soft, folded waist of pink liberty. The round neck is cut modestly low; and the bodice is trimmed with entourage of lace and a wreath of dainty pink chiffon roses. These also appear as the heading of the skirt flounce, which is also trimmed with the lace.
